WORLD COUNCIL

P R E F A C E.

The preparation of a Genealogical Record of the Barber Family has been delayed so long that much valuable data has been lost during the two centuries which have elapsed since ROBERT BARBER came to America. The object of this book is the collection and permanent preservation of what material is still procurable. It is not designed for general circulation, as the record is presumably of interest only to those who are directly concerned. The work was commenced by my father, the late William E. Barber, of West Chester, Pa., and when, at his death, the unfinished "tree" came into my hands, I determined to complete the genealogy, so far as the aid of the various branches of the family might be enlisted. I believe no similar work has ever yet been published which will be found to be absolutely complete. The difficulties encountered in such an enterprise are known only to those who have had practical experience in this direction, and the few gaps or omissions which occur herein must be attributed mainly to the lack of interest on the part of those who alone could have furnished the full information desired.

I beg to acknowledge my indebtedness to all who have furnished the records of their respective branches, but I desire particularly to express the deep sense of obligation I am under to Lieut.-Colonel Samuel Wright, Mr. Geo. W. Haldeman, Samuel Evans, Esquire, Mrs. Anna E. Shoch and

Mrs. Anne B. Essick, of Columbia, Pa.; to Mr. Henry S. Barber, of Freeport, Ill.; to Mr. John V. Barber, of Mifflinburgh, Pa.; to Mr. John A. Dicks, of Natchez, Miss.; to Mr. Robert H. Dicks, of Dayton, Ohio, and to Gilbert Cope, Genealogist, of West Chester, Pa., for the valuable assistance they have rendered me, in placing at my command all data which they possessed relating to the family history. The Robert and Thomas Barber branches, of Buffalo Valley, have been kindly furnished, for the greater part, by Mr. Henry S. Barber, from the manuscript record prepared by him in conjunction with the late William Wright, of Freeport, Ill. That I have been enabled to produce the tolerably complete record which will be found in the pages that follow, is owing, in great measure, to the interest they have manifested in my labors.

I beg to extend my thanks, also, to the proprietor of the Columbia Spy for the use of the portraits of Mr. George W. Haldeman and Mr. Henry H. Houston, which first appeared in the issues of that paper commemorating the centennial anniversary of the founding of that borough.

The earlier history of the family, as here given, is probably as full and complete as it is possible, at this late day, to make it.

I have to request, in conclusion, that members of the family advise me of any errors or omissions which they may discover in this edition, and also that they promptly notify me hereafter of all births, marriages and deaths within the family, which may come to their notice, in order that I may be enabled to perfect and continue the record, with a view to publishing a larger edition at some future time.

BARBER FAMILY IN THE UNITED STATES.

Of the several stocks of the Barber family which came to America from Great Britain, this volume has to deal only with the descendants of Robert Barber, of Lancaster Co., Pa., whose ancestry, it is generally supposed, belonged to Yorkshire, England. It has not been found possible to trace the pedigree back of the father of Robert, whose name was John.

There are several distinct families of this name in the United States. The Barbour family of Virginia, according to Mr. R. A. Brock, of Richmond, claim to be of the lineage of John Barbour, one of the earliest Scotch poets and historians, and Arch-Deacon of Aberdeen in 1357, who died in 1396. Some of this family settled in Virginia as early as 1651, but no connection can be traced to the Yorkshire stock. The spelling of the name in the earlier records of Virginia was Barber. Another family of this name went to New Jersey, and a third settled in Rhode Island, at King's Town, previous to 1687. In the Public Records of Bucks Co., Pa., mention is made of one "John Barber and Elizabeth his wife, eldest daughter of John Songhurst of Shipley, County of Sussex, England," from list of arrivals with Wm. Penn, in 1682. The will of this John Barber is recorded in Philadelphia.¹ It was written on board the "Welcome," "now going for Pennsylvania," dated 7th mo. 20th, 1682, and in it allusion is made to a brother Edward, and sisters Mary, Sarah and Hannah, and to his wife Elizabeth, then with child. According to an account of lands in Pennsylvania granted by Penn to several purchasers within the kingdom of England, Ireland and Scotland,² John Barber received 250, and subsequently 2500, and John Songhurst 1250 (presumably acres). The former was evidently coming out to take up his grant, and is believed to have died on the voyage, or soon after his arrival. No connection between this family and the Lancaster County branch, however, can be traced.

A fifth family of the same name came to America from Scotland. There were three brothers—James, who settled in New York, and David and John, who went to Centre County, Pa. Judge John Barber, the last named, with Judge Potter, held the first court in Bellefonte, in 1800.

Of the descendants of Robert Barber, of Lancaster Co., Pa., one branch went to Buffalo Valley, Northumberland Co., Pa. (now Union), about 1785, and from there a colony migrated to Stephenson Co., Ill., in the year 1835.

BARBAR

ROBERT BARBAR, OF CHESTER, PA.

Some time previous to the year 1688, ROBERT BARBAR, a cordwainer, came, it is supposed, from Yorkshire, England,³ and settled in the neighborhood of Chester, Pa. From what part of Yorkshire he came, or what was his history previous to his arrival in America cannot be ascertained. Neither is it known exactly when he left England, but it appears that he reached the banks of the Delaware about the year 1687. He was a member of the Society of Friends, and soon became prominent in Chester Meeting. The earliest record we are able to find of him is in the minutes of a Quarterly Meeting, held at Walter Faucit's house, in Chester, on the 6th of 12th month, 1687. His name occurs frequently in the early minutes and records of Friends' Meetings, from which the following extracts are made: "Att a monthly meeting att Walter Faucit y^e 5th of y^e 1st m^o 1688 Agreed that Bartholomew Copeck and Robert Barber speak to Josiah Taylor that hee comes to the next monthly meeting and condemn his seting up his Paper."⁴

At the marriage of Benjamin Mendenhall, of Concord, wheelwright, and Ann Pennell, which occurred on the 17th day of 2d mo., 1689, he was one of the witnesses present, and signed his name Robert Barber.⁵

He was one of the committee appointed to supervise the building of the first meeting house in Chester, as appears from the following extract from minutes of Chester Meeting, under date of 1st mo. 5th, 1693-'4:—

"This meeting appoints John Simcocke, Randall Vernon,

He was married to Hannah Ogden in 1690, as is shown by the following, from Minutes of Chester Meeting:—

“Att a monthly meeting att Walter Faucits y^e 13th of y^e 8th mo. 1690 Robert Barber and Hannah Ogden boath Belonging to this mo: meeting Layd their intentions of marriage before this meeting being the first time thee meeing orders Caleb Pusey and Randall Vernon to Inquier concerning his Clearness and Lidia Wade and Mary Hodgkins to Inquier concerning her clearness and make Report next monthly meeting.”

He was a taxable in the township of Chester in 1693, when he appears to have paid the sum of 2s. 9d.⁷ For a number of years he carried on his trade and cultivated the land which he purchased from time to time, from David Lloyd, of Philadelphia, and others. From the former he bought, 10th mo. 13th, 1693, a piece of land in Chester, “for the consideration of ten Pounds currant Silver Money of the said Province,”⁸ and various other deeds of property show that he became possessed, in a few years, of considerable land on Crum Creek and adjoining the town of Chester. David Lloyd conveyed to Robert Barbar, March 15th, 1698⁸, forty feet of ground in consideration of the payment of £10,⁹ and it was either on this lot or the one mentioned above that the latter erected a substantial brick dwelling, a portion of which is still standing, on the northeast corner of Second Street and Edgmont Ave., adjoining the present Edgmont House, in the city of Chester, Pa.

“The house was an imposing one in its day. The pent-roof over the second-story window still remains, although the porch, which formerly projected out some distance on the sidewalk, has been removed. It has two doors; the eastern one leading into the parlor, and the western door into the hall-way, a room of the same size as the one on the opposite side, and in this apartment the staircase ascended to the rooms above. Back of this was the sitting-room, while in the rear of the parlor was a dining-room. The fire-places and hearths in the hall-room and the parlor were laid in blue tiles, presenting scenes from Scriptural history, and in the chambers above, on each side of the fire-places, were large closets, similar to those in most dwellings built at that period.”¹⁰ It is claimed that in this house, in the northwest room of the first floor, the wounded foot of General Lafayette was dressed, after the battle of Brandywine.

The widow of Robert Barbar (who, after the death of the latter, married William Hudson), having lost her second husband, “on Nov. 19th, 1743, as Hannah Hudson, conveyed her life estate to Robert Barber (nephew), thus vesting in him the title absolutely. The latter, and Hannah his wife, then residing in Hempfield, Lancaster County, in consideration of ten shillings and ‘the love and natural affection they bear unto their son,' on August 11, 1747, conveyed the premises and a tract of six acres and other lots in Chester, to John Barber,"¹¹ who afterwards sold the property to Peter Dicks.¹² The house subsequently passed through several hands. In 1842, Thomas Robinson purchased it and in making alterations he had the old fire-places torn out, and the antique tiles were thrown into the street and carried off by children. In 1866 it was bought by Isaiah H. Mirkil, who still owns it. The only alterations he made to it were the addition of two dormer windows, and the renewal of the roof.

It has been stated in several publications that Robert Barber, the nephew, had led a sea-faring life and was at one time a prisoner in France, but this is an error; the statement applied to Robert Barbar the uncle. The true facts in the case are as follows: David Lloyd, Speaker of the Assembly, forwarded his notorious "Remonstrance," dated 26th of 6th mo. 1704, together with a letter, to William Penn, by the hand of his friend Robert Barbar, who sailed in the brigantine commanded by John Guy, to New York. On the voyage across the ocean Robert Barbar was taken by a cruiser, and carried to France and thrown into prison. The nature of these papers was not known to the bearer, as he was induced to believe that they were official documents of importance from the Assembly.¹³ How long he was detained in France does not appear, but his imprisonment could not have been of long duration, as, at a Council held in Philadelphia on March 19th, 170 $\frac{5}{6}$, he was appointed one of five persons to survey and lay out the Queen's Road from Darby "to answer the bridge on Chester Creek."¹⁴

¹² By a release dated Nov. 5th, 1747, "John Barber and Mary his wife ye Grantors named therein," this property was conveyed to Peter Dicks for the consideration of £160 (see Book G, p. 302, Court Records, West Chester, Pa.)

Robert Barbar died without issue in Chester in the year 1709, probably in September, as his will was probated on October 2d of that year. By its provisions much of his property was left to a nephew, Robert Barber, son of his brother John, who came from England sometime between 1690 and 1708, probably in 1699,¹⁵ and letters of administration were granted to Hannah his wife. The latter soon afterward married William Hudson, of Chester, as appears in a deed from James Barber (cousin of Robert, the uncle), to David Lloyd, dated March 18th, 1711,¹⁶ wherein she is described as "Hannah, the now wife of William Hudson," conveying lands fronting on the river Delaware and Crum Creek, formerly belonging to Robert Barbar, to said Lloyd.

JAMES BARBAR, OF CHESTER, PA.

As is shown in the will of Robert Barbar, his cousin JAMES BARBAR, who came to America between 1699 and 1705, resided with him in Chester. To the latter was devised the plantation at Crum Creek, which was bought of Walter Faucit's executrix, to hold in trust, the rents to go to Hannah, the wife of Robert Barbar, until the said James should marry, in which event it was to go to the latter or his heirs. In case James Barbar had no issue, the property was to revert to Robert Barber, nephew of the testator. James Barbar was a taxable in Chester in the year 1715, when he was taxed 1s. 3*d.*, and continued to hold property until the time of his death. On March 18th, 1711, he conveyed to David Lloyd ninety-five acres in Ridley township, on which the former was then living, for £80, subject to the annual rental of £3 15*s.*, which was to be paid to Hannah, then the wife of William Hudson, according to the terms of Robert Barbar's will.¹⁷

A lot situated on the north side of Second St., west of Market St., in the city of Chester, was conveyed by David Lloyd, James Lowns and Susanna his wife, to James Barbar, on Nov. 27th, 1712. On this ground the latter built the brick house, which was until recently used as a bottling establishment and restaurant, in which he resided until 1732. It had a pent roof extending over the window of the first story.

ROBERT BARBER, OF COLUMBIA, PA.

(1) I. ROBERT BARBER, the head of the Lancaster County branch, was the second son of John Barber, of Yorkshire, England, and came to America to join his uncle, Robert Barbar, of Chester, Pa., about the year 1699,²¹ as an apprentice at the trade of shoemaking. At the death of the uncle, in 1708, the nephew inherited a considerable portion of the estate (see will of Robert Barbar in Appendix), and soon took his relative's place in public and religious affairs.

(2) He married, 5th month, 17th, 1718, Hannah, daughter of William Tidmarsh. According to the records of Chester Meeting (Certificates of Marriage, Vol. 9, p. 46), the following relatives of the bride and groom were present: James Barbar (his father's cousin), William Tidmarsh, Rose Tidmarsh and Sarah Tidmarsh.

Robert Barber seems to have entered actively into politics at an early age. At a Council held at Philadelphia, Oct. 3d, 1719, which was presided over by the Honourable William Keith, Esq., Gouverneur, to receive the returns of an election for sheriff and coroner, "Nicholas Fairlamb and Robert Barber being returned for the office of sheriff, Nicholas Fairlamb is appointed." Robert's defeat does not seem to have discouraged him, for we find him soon after running for the office of coroner, and at a Council held at Philadelphia on Oct 4th, 1721, he was declared elected coroner of the county of Chester.

In 1724 he was elected a member of the Board of Assessors

²¹ It is supposed that Robert Barber came to America with the children of Mrs. Williams, a sister of Hannah Ogden, reaching Chester in the 3d month, 1699, their passage being paid by Robert Barbar, the uncle. The records, however, do not show this. Of these children, three were bound to Robert Barbar. The fourth was bound to David Ogden.

PLAN OF THE ROBERT BARBER PURCHASE ON THE SUSQUEHANNA.

of Chester County, and it was while acting in this capacity, and on duty in Conestoga township, that he discovered the land on the Susquehanna, which he afterward purchased. In the year 1726 he took up 500 acres of land on the eastern bank of the river, above where the town of Columbia now stands. This tract was conveyed to him by purchase, on August 19th, 1726, by Jeremiah Langhorne, agent of the proprietors. The title runs—

Wm. Penn to George Beale, of Surrey, England, 17-18 of 11th mo., 1701.

George Beale to Jeremiah Langhorne, 17-18 Oct., 1718.

Jeremiah Langhorne to Robert Barber, 19-20 Aug., 1726.

Under date of August 30-31, by lease and release, Robert Barber conveyed to Susanna Wright, at Chester, 100 acres; and by similar instruments, September 20th, to John Wright, 150 acres of this tract. Samuel Blunston purchased, August 23d, 1726, from James Logan, 300 acres adjoining the above-mentioned 500 acres, and subsequently, from the same, under date of January 10th, 1733, 300 acres, to which he afterward added, by Patent, June 2d, 1741, 225 acres purchased from the Penns, bringing his lands to the Chicques Hills, as stated in Miss Barber's memoirs.²² John Wright and Samuel Blunston left Chester and Darby for Conestoga, in order to begin a settlement at Shawanah town on Susquehanna, upon the 12th day of September, 1726. The tradition is that Robert Barber preceded them and selected the site. They were all members of the Society of Friends. None of them seem to have settled permanently with their families upon this land until a year or so later. The exact date of Robert Barber's return to the Susquehanna is not known, but he probably left Chester with his family some time in the year 1728. He and his wife were present at Chester Monthly Meeting, 6th month, 28th, 1727, as representatives from Chester Preparative Meeting. At a monthly meeting held 1st month 25th, 1728, at Providence meeting house, the records of Chester Meeting show that "Robert Barber being about to Remove himself and family to Conastogo Requests a Certificate to Newgarden monthly meeting on that account." The certificate was granted at next meeting, held 2d month 29th, 1728.

The Barbers do not seem to have availed themselves of this certificate, however, and did not connect themselves with any meeting in Lancaster County during the lifetime of Robert. On the 28th of 3d month, 1733, Chester Monthly Meeting "being informed by a member of Newgarden Monthly Meeting that Robert Barber still neglects to deliver his Certificate to that meeting which he received from this several years ago although he hath formerly been advised thereto, Jacob Howell and Samuel Levis Jn^r are apointed to write to him again and lay the ill consequence of the neglect thereof before him." The committee wrote to him, but the result does not appear in the records. At that time New Garden Monthly Meeting included the territory which in 1737 was set apart for Sadsbury Monthly Meeting. The New Garden records do not contain anything about the Barber family. In consequence of this neglect on the part of Robert Barber, the dates of birth of the children born in Lancaster County are not found in the records of any of the monthly meetings, and it has not been found possible to procure them elsewhere.

Just below where Columbia now stands, Robert Barber built his house, near the present residence of Mr. Jacob C. Stoner, but the old building has long since been torn down. The old log prison stood about fifty feet in front of where Mr. Stoner's house now stands. He continued in politics for several years, and at a council held at Philadelphia, on May 8th, 1729, he was appointed first sheriff of Lancaster County, after its erection, and his commission was ordered to be prepared. At a council held at the same place, on Oct. 4th, 1729, he was reappointed sheriff. He was not a candidate for reelection the following year, as Lancaster had been made the county seat, much to his disappointment; and he was succeeded by John Galbraith of Donegal, on Oct. 3d, 1730.

Robert Barber was one of seven persons appointed to view and lay out a road from Lancaster to the division line between the counties of Chester and Lancaster, at a council held at Philadelphia, Jan. 29th, 1730. In 1740 he was elected Commissioner of Lancaster County. He was prominent in Cresap's war, and though he did not bear arms he was active in the interest of the Penns. He was for many years amongst the foremost men of Lancaster County in all public enterprises, but gradually went out of notice, and devoted the latter years of his life to the support of his large family.

Robert Barber died at Columbia, in September, 1749, aged about 57. He was buried in a part of the old Columbia cemetery which was called in early days the "Brick Graveyard," because it was enclosed by a wall, the bricks of which were brought from England. The Barbers being Friends, their graves were unmarked, and now all traces of them are lost. Sheriff Barber died intestate, and letters of administration were taken out Oct. 6th, 1749, by his widow,²³ who, with the children, had entered into an agreement to divide the real estate, under date of Sept. 17th, 1749.

No portrait of Robert Barber seems to be in existence, but his signature and seal are here reproduced from an old docu-

Leech & Co., the leading canal and railroad transporters of Pennsylvania. Here he displayed such executive ability that he attracted the attention of Col. William C. Patterson, President of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and in 1850 he was selected to organize the freight business for this road, and until 1865 he labored unremittingly in this broader field, the results of his efforts being still apparent. Since then he has been engaged in special transportation enterprises, and is now interested in several local and transcontinental lines, and is part owner in more than twenty ocean steamers, including the great steamers—the "City of Paris" and the "City of New York." He is a director in the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad, the Inman and International Steamship Companies, the Erie and Western Transportation Company, and a number of other organizations of a similar nature. SECOND BRANCH.

- (183) II. 2. JOHN BARBER, eldest son of Robert and Hannah Tidmarsh Barber, was b. in Chester, Pa., 8th mo. 13th, 1720. He m. Mary —, previous to Nov. 5th, 1747, as appears in a release of that date,²⁴ in which "John Barber and Mary, his wife" are the grantors named therein.

By a quit-claim deed dated Aug. 11th, 1747, "between Robert Barber of the township of Hempfield in y^e County of Lancaster and Province of Pennsylvania, Cordwainer, and Hannah his wife of the one part and John Barber of the township of Hallam in the County and Province afs^d Yeoman oldest son and heir at law of the s^d Robert Barber,"²⁵ the old Barber mansion in Chester was conveyed to John, who shortly after sold the property to one Peter Dicks. At his father's death John received 50 acres on east end of tract near Columbia, Pa.

Very little is known of this son, but according to the narrative of Miss Sarah Barber, he is supposed to have been killed by Indians near the present site of Pittsburgh, where he had gone to trade in furs. This has become a family tradition, but whether true or not, we have now no means of ascertaining. Samuel Evans, Esq., of Columbia, has recently discovered, through an old document in the Register's Office at Lancaster, that John Barber died in the year 1759; Jacob Furry and Samuel Bethel were the appraisers.²⁶ By a quitclaim deed dated June 7th, 1768, Mary,²⁷ the widow of John, released her dower to Hannah Barber, Administratrix of Robert Barber, deceased, for a consideration of £37. In the division of the personal property of the latter, made by order of the Orphans' Court in 1769, it is stated that John, Thomas and Elizabeth Barber, minor children, died intestate, under age, unmarried and without issue, a manifest error, so far, at least, as applied to John, who was married and twenty-nine years old when his father died in 1749. It is believed that John left no issue.

At a Monthly Meeting of Sadsbury "held at Lampiter," 1st of 3d mo. 1756, "After Deliberate Dealing with John Barber for his outgoing in marriage, two friends is to prepare a testimonial against him."

THIRD BRANCH.

(185) II. 3. ROBERT BARBER, second son of Robert and Hannah Tidmarsh Barber, was b. in Chester, Pa., 10th mo. 10th, 1722; m., 9th mo. 26th, 1746, Sarah,²⁸ dr. of Samuel and Elizabeth Wright Taylor, of Tinicum Island, Pa., who was b. 12th mo. 3d, 1729. He was first lieut. of the first company formed in Hempfield township, Lancaster Co., in 1775, of which his brother James was captain, his brother Samuel was second lieut. and his son John was a private. He took the oath of allegiance to the State of Pennsylvania in H. township July 1st, 1777. He received 62 acres of ground from his mother on Oct. 14th, 1761, according to an arrangement made by his father during his lifetime. He built the brick house, which is still standing in Columbia, on the same plot of ground on which his father's house formerly stood. The bricks in the house were probably brought from England. The woodwork was mainly oak, as stated in Miss Barber's Memoir, in Appendix. This was erected previous to the year 1763, as it was here that the Paxton boys stopped on the morning after murdering the Indians.²⁹ The structure is now occupied as an office by the Susquehanna Iron Co., and by the Superintendent as a dwelling.

²⁸ At a Monthly Meeting of Sadsbury held at Sadsbury the 6th of 8th mo., 1746, "Robert Barber and Sarah Taylour, Daughter of Samuel Taylour, both of Hempfield, appeared in this meeting it being The First time, and Declared they have Intentions of marriage with each other, Joseph Steer, and John Griffeth, is appointed to Enquire, as to the young mans conversation and clearness from all others on the account of marriage, and of Parents consent and that the Women do the Like on y^e young womans account and Report to next Meeting." From Minutes of Sadsbury Monthly Meeting, p. 93.

HOUSE BUILT BY ROBERT BARBER (185), IN COLUMBIA, PA., ABOUT THE YEAR 1761.

Now owned by the Susquehanna Iron Co.

The main portion of the building is as it was 125 years ago. The projecting roof running around between the two stories has been removed and other changes have been made in recent years, such as the addition of a porch in front and a kitchen at one side in the rear. The old-style doors and window sashes have also been replaced by modern ones. Robert Barber d. Oct. 4th, 1782. She d. Oct. 6th, 1793.

- (191) III. 4. ROBERT, eldest son of Robert and Sarah Taylor Barber, was b. in Columbia, Pa., Aug. 28th, 1751; m., Sept, 23d, 1775, Sarah, dr. of Dr. Samuel and Mary Bethel Boude, b. in Columbia, May 19th, 1754. He took the oath of allegiance to the State of Pennsylvania in Hempfield township, July 1st, 1777. In company with his brother Thomas, he moved to Northumberland Co. (now Union), Pa., in 1785, in which year he was taxed on four horses, two cows and 580 acres of land. It appears that the subject of this sketch became possessed of property in Northumberland Co. some thirteen years before he left Columbia to settle permanently in Buffalo Valley. It is supposed that the land was purchased for him and his brothers, Thomas and John, by their father. "In the fall (of 1772) Robert Barber, Esquire, built the first house on the White Springs tract of which we have any knowledge, as he recites in a lease dated 9th August, 1773, to John Scott, that he leases him the house he had built last fall at the head of White Springs for seven years. It was on the Edward Lee warrantee, which Barber had purchased, in August, from Reuben Haines." ³⁰ This old log house is still standing, but it has been moved about one hundred yards from its original position, and the logs have been covered with weather-boards within the recollection of some of the family now living. It was about 20 by 25 feet in dimensions, the large stone chimney occupying nearly the entire width of one end. The structure is now owned by Benjamin Chambers, who bought it after the death of the Misses Eleanor and Elizabeth Barber, who had a life interest in it.

In 1791, Robert Barber built a sawmill on his farm on White Spring Run. In 1797, he built a gristmill on the same stream. In 1805 and '6, in partnership with Solomon Heise, of Columbia, he built the largest flouring mill in the county, on Penn's Creek, and also a sawmill. He served as magistrate many years, having been commissioned Justice of the Peace for Buffalo township, Nov. 29th, 1792. He occupied the same farm 56 years. The land is now owned by his grandchildren, the Barbers and Chambers. Esquire Barber was a man of great force of character, and exercised a strong influence among the first settlers. He d. in Union Co., Nov. 27th, 1841. She d. May 25th, 1818.

Smith), on the southeastern outskirts of Columbia. The old mansion was torn down about twenty years ago.

In 1804 he entered the mercantile business in partnership with Nathaniel Barber, his cousin, taking the store of Samuel Miller. He was in partnership in the dry goods' business with James Wright from 1807 until about 1820, on Locust St. He was afterward in business with Messrs. Houston and Gossler, at Front and Walnut Sts., and for some time after 1827 was in the lumber business with Isaac Vaughan. He also was a partner of James Barber, his nephew, in the same business, from 1847 to 1849. In the year 1814, he, with Killian Epley, purchased a tract of land lying in the town of Columbia, from Christian Brenneman, which, with several other pieces of land, in and near the town, they divided into lots and sold. They laid out an addition to the town, on Third St. below Union. He was always a public-spirited citizen and prominently identified with all public enterprises in his native town.

In 1812 he was a member of the 75th Penna. Reg. of Militia, and was afterward appointed paymaster to pay off the regiment. He was Secretary of the Susquehanna and York Borough Turnpike in 1809, and was afterward a Director in the Columbia and Portsmouth Turnpike. In 1825 he was elected a State Director of the Columbia Bridge Co., and on Dec. 14th, 1827, he was reëlected by the House of Representatives, and was continued in this office for several years. On June 3d, 1829, he was unanimously appointed, by the Penna. Canal Commissioners, Superintendent of the Columbia and Philadelphia Rail Road, and held that important position until the spring of 1833. In 1830 (June 9th) it was ordered by the Canal Commissioners that the Eastern Division of the Penna. Canal, from Columbia to Middletown, be attached to the Superintendency of the Columbia and Phila. R.R., thus coming under his supervision. This branch of the railroad was commenced in 1829, and a single track was completed and opened April 16th, 1834. On Oct. 7th of the same year the second (double) track was opened to the public, shortly after his connection as Superintendent had ceased.

He was Chief Burgess of Columbia Borough, under the first charter, in 1824, and again in 1829, and was Ass't Burgess in 1831. He was elected to the General Assembly in 1828. In 1833 he was Treasurer of the Columbia, Marietta and Portsmouth Road, and subsequently held a number of minor public positions.

He married, Feb. 22d, 1821, Sarah Elizabeth, dr. of John Sanderson Whitehill and Mary Ann AtLee, and grand dr. of Col. Samuel John AtLee, of the Revolution. She was b. Sept. 17th, 1800. In 1849 he moved to Baltimore, Md., to join his sons, William and Samuel, who were engaged in the lumber business in that city. In 1856 he moved to West Chester, Pa., and died at that place on Oct. 23d, 1868. She d. at West Chester Jan. 13th, 1858.

APPENDIX C.

Catharine Klinessmith was a daughter of Baltzer Klinessmith, a soldier of the Revolution, who was killed by the Indians in 1780. The account of this outrage, as given in Linn's Annals of Buffalo Valley, p. 189, differs somewhat from the following version, which has been kindly furnished for this work by Mr. John V. Barber, of Mifflinburgh, Pa., who often heard the story from the lips of one of the heroines, Catharine, or Aunt Katy, as she was generally called.

“On the 14th of July, 1780, the date we get from pension papers, Baltzer Klinessmith, with his daughters, Catharine and Elizabeth, were harvesting in a field almost surrounded by forest. When near the edge of the timber, the girls being some distance off, he was shot, but was able to call to the girls to hide themselves. The Indians scalped Klinessmith and soon found the others. There were three Indians, an old man and two young men. They made their way to the spring north of New Berlin, where they remained over night. In the evening the old Indian washed the scalp and held it up before the girls, making sport of it. Then Elizabeth told her sister that she would kill him, but Katy tried to persuade her not to do so, on account of the great danger. She replied that she did not care for the consequences, the Indian must die. In the morning the young men went off down the valley. They had stolen a good many things, amongst them a sack of flour and an old axe. The old man told the girls, as it commenced to rain, to cover the flour with bushes. He sat with his head against a tree and the axe near at hand. Elizabeth, in gathering the brush, worked near the axe, but the Indian motioned her away with his hand. Finally he closed his eyes, and the girl got near enough to secure the weapon. As she raised it to strike with the butt end, Katy, who was closely watching her, motioned with her hand to turn it around and strike with the edge, which the other did, splitting the old man's head open to the chin. There was a log fort about three-quarters of a mile east of White Springs, where Joseph Chambers, who married Mary Barber, afterwards lived. Elizabeth, although the younger of the two, was the faster runner, and soon reached the fort. Catharine became bewildered, and was soon discovered by one of the Indians who was returning, and who shot at her a great distance in the woods. The ball struck her a little to the left of the backbone, and came out at the left breast, just missing the vital parts. She crawled through the brush and under a large fallen tree. The Indian ran over her hiding place without seeing her. The people from the fort soon gave the alarm and started after the Indians. One of them seeing her under the log, raised his gun, thinking she was an Indian. She held up her apron, with which she had closed the wound to stanch the blood, and thus saved her life.

“Aunt Katy was a great friend of my mother's, and as her house was not a hundred rods from our house, she spent a good part of her time with us, and many a time she told the story to us children. Once, I remember, in our hall, she opened her dress and showed mother the mark of the ball, the dent being large enough for a bullet to lie in when she was standing.

“She first married Daniel Campbell, who died in 1793, leaving two children, Ann and John. Afterwards she married Robert Chambers, by whom she had one daughter, Rebecca. Aunt Katy died in February, 1837.”

APPENDIX D.

EXTRACTS FROM MISS SARAH BARBER'S MEMOIR.

In the year 1830, Miss Sarah Barber, daughter of Robert and Sarah Taylor Barber, prepared a journal of her recollections of Columbia and its early settlers, which included a brief history of the Barber family and an account of her grandfather, Robert Barber, Sheriff. As these incidents were described from memory, it is not surprising that the manuscript contained a number of inaccuracies, such as the statement that her grandfather had followed a seafaring life and been a political prisoner in French dungeons. It contained many facts of interest, however, and much accurate information. The sketch was first printed in the Columbia Spy, in the year 1832, and was afterwards reproduced, in a modified form, in several historical publications, so that the different versions disagreed in many points, and the errors contained in the original were increased and perpetuated. It is the object of this book to eliminate, so far as possible, these mistakes. This the writer has been enabled to do in a great measure through the assistance of Lieut.-Col. Samuel Wright and Samuel Evans, Esq., of Columbia, who have kindly placed their notes at his disposal, and referred him to the original documents, in which the correct statements of the events in question are to be found. Miss Barber's account of the atrocious massacre of the peaceable Conestoga Indians, by a band of ruffians and cut-throats from Paxton township, is particularly interesting, and we have every reason to believe it to be true in all essential details. The following extracts taken from this memoir are believed to be substantially correct :—

“The journey (from Chester to the Susquehanna) in those days was thought a very great undertaking, the country being uninhabited except by the Indians, who had their cabins scattered in many places. What a grand sight it must have been, our noble river pursuing its undisturbed course, or only slightly ruffled by the Indian canoe, the shore covered with lofty trees which had stood since the creation. Such was this place when three families from Chester came to make their home in the wilderness. Robert Barber kept the 250 acres next the lower hills (near where Columbia now stands). He came from Yorkshire, I think. He settled further from the river than the others. He built the brick house now occupied by John Hinkle. His first small house was gone before my recollection. He was one of the Burgesses of Chester under William Penn’s government. He was Sheriff of Lancaster County, and it was intended that the seat of justice should be here; in consequence of this intention there was a prison built near his house. I remember it well—a strong-looking log building—was pulled down not many years since. James, afterwards Earl of Anglesea,² was once confined there. His story is well known, and may be found in Proud’s History of Pennsylvania. Robert Barber had several children; the oldest son, John, was killed by the Indians, somewhere near where Pittsburgh now stands. He had gone to trade in fur—what was called trapping. His other sons settled on the land, but it is all owned by the Stricklers but about sixty acres, which was the share of the second son, Robert, who married Sarah, daughter of Samuel Taylor. He had ten children, but at this time, 1830, they are all gone but one son and two daughters; the daughters live on the place, in the house which their father built 65 years since. I well remember the old house which their father lived in before he built the present brick house; some of the wood of the old house is now in the brick house. There were no pine boards, as in the present day. The joists, window and door frames are of oak; what little pine that is in it were logs which were found in the river, and sawed at a mill on what was called Barber's Run, where Nathaniel Barber once had a sawmill. There was a fulling mill on the same stream, kept by Samuel Barber, another brother.

“One of the first things in my recollection is hearing an account of the massacre of the poor Conestoga Indians, which took place in the 12th month, 1763—three years before my birth. The great interest which every one who I heard speak of it took in it seemed to fix it in my memory at a very early age. I thought to have heard some particulars from my brother, who well remembers it, but the recollection was so affecting to him, tho' it is nearly 70 years since, that I forbore to ask him all I intended, but I think the principal parts are too strongly fixed in my memory to admit of mistake. They were called the Conestoga Indians, but I think there were some among them of the Shawnee Tribe. There was one, 'Shawnee John,' and the little run where they had their huts is still called 'Shawnee Run'; they were here when the first white settlers came; they were entirely peaceable, and seemed as much afraid of the other Indians as the whites were; they often had their cabins here by the little mill; my oldest brother and sister used to be whole days with them.

“The government of Pennsylvania now got into other hands, and the peaceable nature of Penn's administration was changed to one of more hostile nature towards the poor natives. The Friends did their best to keep peace in every way, but there were too many against them, and it was thought by many that they should all be destroyed. Accordingly, a company from Paxton Township, under the name of 'Paxton Boys,' agreed to come by night and destroy the poor Indians at their town. Such was the situation of things, when, a very cold morning in the 12th month, 1763, a German neighbor came to my father's house requesting him to go with him in pursuit of some persons who had been at his house the preceding night, whom he termed robbers; they had behaved in a very disorderly manner, such as melting the pewter on the stove, and other things of the same kind. My father, supposing they had been some persons in a frolic, advised him to take no notice of it. He was scarcely gone when five or six men came in; they had guns which they left outside; they were very cold—their coats covered with snow and sleet. I don't think my father was personally acquainted with any of them, though he knew from what part of the county they came. He made up the fire to warm them, and according to the hospitality of the times treated them with the customary morning refreshments. While they warmed themselves they enquired why the Indians were suffered to live peaceably there. My father told them they were quite inoffensive, living on their own land and injuring no one. They asked what would be the consequence were they destroyed. My father told them he thought they would be as liable to punishment as if they had destroyed so many whites. They were of a different opinion. At length they went away without telling what they had been about. In the meantime my two brothers,³ ten and twelve years old, had been out looking at the strangers' horses (as such boys are wont to do), which were hitched in a wagon shed which stood near the door; after they were gone, my brothers said they had tomahawks tied to their saddles, and they were bloody; that they also had Christie's gun (Christie was a little Indian boy about the age of my brothers; they were much attached to him; he was their playmate in all their sports—made their bows and arrows, and was, indeed, as a brother). While they wondered what it could mean, a messenger came giving information of the dreadful deed. My father and some others went down to see them buried—shocking, indeed, was the sight—the dead bodies lay among the rubbish of their burnt cabins like half-consumed logs. I think there were fourteen murdered. It was said that at the beginning of the slaughter a mother had placed her child—almost an infant—under a barrel, charging it to make no noise; a shot was fired through the barrel, which broke the child's arm, and it still kept silent. I do not vouch for the truth of this, but I have often heard it told with the other parts of the shocking story. The rest of the Indians, I think, to the number of twenty-eight, who were absent from the town at the first slaughter, were collected together and put into the jail in Lancaster for safety, as it was said, but the merciless wretches, not satisfied with their first work, went thither and (I cannot say in spite of opposition, for it does not appear there was any made) broke open the jail, and cruelly, and in a shocking manner, destroyed them all—old men, women and children.”

APPENDIX E.

Letter written by John Barber, son of Robert and Sarah Taylor Barber, at the age of twenty-three, shortly after the battle of Long Island, the first pitched battle of the Revolution, in which he participated. It was addressed to "Mr. Robert Barber, Sr., in Hempfield. Forwarded by Capt Hamilton."

"WEST CHESTER (N. Y.), Sept. 23, 1776.

"Dear Father:—I sopose you are not well pleased with mee for not riteing before, but I can give you the sattesfaction of letting you know that I am very well at presant hoping theas lines may find you the same. Wea lay at preasant in such an out of the way place that wea scearce hear any news at all. Wea have been hear about three weeks, which wea think a great while, as wee have not been neer so long at any place before. West Chester is about seventeen miles from York. Wee had a sad bury on Long Island, but I dare say you can tell the particulars better than wee can tho' wee ware in the midst of it, as wee hear many differant ways of it. Wee ware about three miles from our lines when the engagement began, which was about one o'clock in the morning and it lasted till four in the afternoon. Wee lost Lieutenant Paterson and John Chambers and four more wee sopose to have been killed as wee saw them neer the breastworks. The enemi had got quite 'round us but wee had the heels of them and got. The first firing wee herd was the Delaware Battalion and about a thousand regulars which landed the same night by the narrows wee sopose to devert us a little and indeed they had like to have diverted us too long for before wee ware got to our lines they ware within gunshot 'round from another quarter. How they got 'round I cannot say. Some say it was by trechary and blame Lord Sterling.

“The third night after we fitted of Long Island and left them all our fine fortifications. Wee got over the East River about four o'clock in the morning. It hapned very well for us, for about nine in the evining the fog gathered so thick that the enemy could not see us, for if they had, they would have made sad work. They did not discover our retreat til about nine in the morning. There came a party down to the shore and fired on sum boats of the last that came over and killed one or two. Our batallion marched about a mile out of town and encamped. It would have been imposable for our men to have kept York, after having given up the lins on Long Island. I often wondred at our people for leaving the lins as they ware very strong.

“As for the last engagement on York Island I can give very little account. Wee could hear the platoons and cannon, but I beleave our people got the better of them. Wee hear that part of York is burnt. Wee saw a very large fier that way, but cant bee sure. Wee staid but one day and a night at York after wee left Long Island. Wee live very well and peaceble heer as wee are a good wais from any water whare the men of war can come up.

“Christopher Taylor has been poorly, but is getting better. All the river boys are well. Sam Boude is but poorly yet, but hee is getting some better. Our people are very much scattered so it is hard to tell what number wee have. Wee have but about 30 men fit fur duty in our company. I am very glad that Captin Barber's⁴ Company had not to march as it would have been very hurtful to the nighberhood. Christopher remembers his kind love to Mamy, give my kind love to all my relations. Tel Samy Wright I received his letter sent by Mr. Cunningham as likewise one from Boby and Samy Barber, and that I will rite to them the next oportunaty. I am, with great respect, your loving son,
